To receive aid at UF, apply for financial aid as soon as possible. Students interested in state financial aid programs should register with the Selective Service Administration, and conduct workshops from January to March on applying for aid. Remember, we're here to help. Don't hesitate to ask for assistance. Stop in or call the Office for Student Financial Affairs.

Who Provides Financial Aid?

Financial aid is provided by many agencies. Federal, state, and local governments, colleges, community organizations, and private corporations or individuals provide assistance in the form of either “gift aid” (scholarships and grants) or “self-help” programs (loans and employment). Scholarships are awarded either on academic merit alone, or on academic merit and financial need. They do not have to be repaid. Grants are awards to students based on financial need alone and do not have to be repaid. Loans are available to students at the federal government on the basis of low interest rates (5%-9%). Student loans are considered financial aid because they have special interest rates and most are subsidized by the institution, the state, or the federal government. Repayment of government student loans does not begin until after graduation. Student employment lets students earn money toward their education while in school by working part-time through federal or state work programs, generally on campus.

What is an “Aid Package”? When you apply for assistance from SFA, you do not apply for a particular type or amount of aid. Each student who applies is automatically considered for all aid programs.

* Tuition and fee figures are projected estimates for 2007-08 for freshmen and graduate students entering UF for the first time. Out-of-state undergraduates should add $13,110 to their projected tuition/fees; out-of-state graduate students should add $15,740. Undergraduate tuition fees listed are based on an average of 30 credit hours of $0.4999/graduate tuition fees on 24 credit hours of $0.9999 level courses.

How and When Do I Apply?

1. In early January, obtain a Gator Aid Application Guide and a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) from your high school counselor, community college aid office, or from SFA in S-107 Criser Hall. We strongly recommend applying online using FAFSA on the Web at www.fafsa.ed.gov. Fill out the paper or electronic form and use the AID code for the results to reach SFA by our “on-time” deadline.

2. To receive aid at UF, apply for financial aid as soon as possible after January 1. Do not wait to be admitted to UF to apply. The earlier you apply, the better chance you will have of being considered for all aid programs!

3. Students interested in state financial aid programs such as Florida Student Assistance Grants and Florida Bright Futures Scholarships should contact their high school guidance office or the Florida Department of Education in Tallahassee in the fall or early spring before high school graduation for information and forms (see “Financial Aid Addresses” on back).

4. Financial information provided by you and your family is evaluated on your own assets and income. If you are classified as dependent, your parents’ assets and income and your own are evaluated. If you are classified as independent, your financial need is evaluated on your own assets and income.

How Does the University Determine if I am Eligible for Aid?

Financial information provided by you and your family is analyzed by the federal need analysis processor according to Federal methodology. Federal methodology is a standardized need-analysis formula created by the U.S. Congress to enable financial aid agencies to calculate how much individual students and their families are expected to pay for higher education. The federal processor sends your need analysis to the schools you specify, indicating how much you and your family should be able to pay for your education. The university compares this amount with its cost of attendance. If the cost of attendance is greater than what you are expected to pay, the university considers you to have financial need and to be eligible for aid.

Who Should Apply?

The only way to tell if you’re eligible to receive aid is to apply. UF takes many factors into account when awarding aid. The number of members in your family and the number attending college can make a difference. You don’t have to be poor to qualify, but you do have to prove you need aid. On the average, 80 percent of students at UF receive some form of financial assistance.

Dependent or Independent?

The federal government has established criteria for classifying financial aid recipients as dependent or independent. If you are classified as dependent, your parents’ assets and income and your own are evaluated. If you are classified as independent, your financial need is evaluated on your own assets and income.

What is an “Aid Package”?

Income is not the only factor considered in determining how much you and your family should be able to pay toward college. Your family’s size, number of family members in college are also factors. The university cannot determine the amount of students’ awards until the results of their FAFSAs/Renewal FAFSAs are received from the federal processor. SFA begins to mail out student awards in March or April. The best way to find out how much you may qualify for is to fill out the FAFSA early to get the process started. Meanwhile, you and your family might want to use the “expected family contribution” calculator on “The Financial Aid Information Page” at www.finaid.org.

What Aid Programs are Available at UF?

Scholarships: Hundreds of scholarships are available for UF students. Some are need-based; others are not. Sources include SFA, the UF Admissions Office, UF colleges and departments, the State of Florida, and private donors and organizations.

Work Programs: Federal Work-Study, Other Personnel Services, Off-Campus Jobs, and Co-op Education.

Eligibility

Eligibility requirements vary by program. At UF, to be eligible for most financial aid programs you must:

- be a U.S. citizen, national, or permanent resident alien;
- be enrolled at least half time in a degree-seeking program;
- make satisfactory academic progress toward a degree (www.sfa.ufl.edu/receiving/academicprogress.html);
- not be in default on a student loan or owe a refund on student financial aid received at UF or any other institution;
- register with the Selective Service Administration, if required to do so.

Can I Transfer Aid from Another School?

Generally, financial aid cannot be transferred from one institution to another. In most cases you must reapply for aid. If you plan to transfer:

1. Contact both SFA and the financial aid office at your current school to inquire about transfer policies.
2. SFA will access financial aid transcript information for you via a national data source. You will be notified if additional information is needed.
3. “University of Florida” (Title IV Code 001535) is listed as a school of your choice on the Federal Student Aid Report (SAR) you receive from the federal processor.
4. If you are receiving Florida Bright Futures Scholarships (State Code 011) or other aid program from the State of Florida, contact the Florida Department of Education (FDEP) in Tallahassee for instructions. FDEP has deadlines for notifying them of a change in school.
5. If you are receiving a Federal Direct Loan or Federal Family Education Loan at your current school, you must cancel that loan, reapply at UF through SFA, and contact your previous lenders to update your enrollment status and new location.

Your Guide to Gator Aid

If you are planning to attend college, you may need financial aid—money intended to help students pay college costs. Don’t assume you can’t afford college. Instead, explore the options available. The goal of the financial aid system is to provide all students the opportunity to attend college regardless of the family’s financial status by making up the difference between college costs and what the family can afford. College costs include not just tuition and fees, but also housing, meals, books, supplies, transportation, and personal expenses. You can help your chances of receiving financial aid by knowing the answers to the following questions about who, what, when, and how.

Remember, we’re here to help. Don’t hesitate to ask for assistance. Stop in, or call.
You are responsible for following up on your FAFSA. After receiving the first of your financial aid documents, within a reasonable amount of time, your financial aid award notice (or a copy) from SFA. If you apply “on time,” you should receive this in late spring or early summer.

Does the University Verify Information on Aid Applications?

Yes. About 30 percent of financial aid applications nationwide are “verified,” a process of confirming data supplied by applicants and/or parents on aid applications. Verification is part of the required federal process that determines whether or not students are eligible for aid. If your application is selected, you will receive an email from us notifying you and providing instructions.

If I’m Eligible for Aid, When Will I Receive It?

If you apply in early spring and turn in all documents requested by our office, you should receive your money at the beginning of fall semester. Students who apply late or are selected for verification may receive their aid late. These students should be prepared to pay startup costs from other sources.

Reapply Each Year!

Financial aid is not renewed automatically. Federal requirements and/or your family’s financial situation may change. If you were ineligible in a previous year, apply again. You may have become eligible.

What Happens After I Apply?

1. Apply Early. Complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). FAFSA as soon as possible after January 1 each year. Pick up a Gator Aid Application Guide and a FAFSA, either from your high school guidance office or community college financial aid office, or from SFA in Criser Hall, and mail it to the federal processor. Or, apply online at “FAFSA on the Web” at www.fafsa.ed.gov. We strongly recommend applying online.

2. If at all possible, complete your income tax returns FIRST so that you can take financial figures directly from your IRS forms.

3. Read Instructions Carefully.

4. Respond Quickly to all requests from our office and the other aid agencies to speed up the process and get your money sooner.

5. Ask Questions! If you are unsure about any part of the application process, check with your high school counselor or with SFA in Criser Hall.

If your financial aid award notice indicates your “Expected Family Contribution” and is your required. When we have determined how much and what kind of financial aid you will receive, we will send you (by U.S. Postal Service and email) an award letter informing you of your eligibility or ineligibility. If you apply “on time,” you should receive this in late spring or early summer.

Start a Financial Aid File

What to keep in your file:

• Photocopies or printouts of your completed FAFSA.
• Photocopies of your/your parents’ income tax forms and W-2s.
• Your Federal Student Aid Report or a photocopy of it.
• Photocopies of forms or information used to complete your aid application, plus all correspondence with SFA and other aid agencies.
• Your financial aid award notice (or a copy) from SFA.
• Your Gator Aid Application Guide and your FAFSA instruction booklet.
